Dear Andrew,

Hi. I received a call from Joe Blach at RH the other day regarding this check and letter which I received today and enclose. It is Random House check # 254138 dated March 29, 1976 in the amount of $2510.00. The matter is apparently a duplicate charge on a production cost which RH is remitting.

My assumption is that this money would have shown up as profit and therefore should be treated as perour agreement. Let me know if I am wrong.

RE: "The Last Whole Earth Catalog"

Dear Mr. Hollingsworth:

We have received Random House's check for $20,632.66, and are grateful for your and Larry Klein's efforts in facilitating the termination of POINT's contract with Random House. There is one matter which remains unresolved.

We had inquired about the charge of $2,510 which appeared on the September 30, 1975 accounting from Josef Blach. In Mr. Blach's letter (and attachments) of January 15, 1976 to Don Gerard, he indicates that this charge relates to the correction of production errors in the hardcover edition of the CATALOG. These errors were the complete responsibility of Random House, and it was agreed that Random House would bear the full cost of correcting them. This is confirmed in the eighth paragraph of my letter of November 27, 1974 to Jim Silberman.

Having been personally involved in working with David Rivchin and Peter Malman on these production problems, I know that it is entirely innapropriate to have charged POINT with these costs. I would appreciate your checking on this matter, and arranging with Mr. Blach to adjust his accounting records so that a check for the amount of this charge can be sent to us promptly.

Yours truly,

Andrew Fluegelman
Managing Editor
